A SHORT FRONTIER CLUB HISTORY

by George Greig, Secretary

The Frontier Athletic Club of Tijuana, Mexico, got started by chance, about twelve years ago, and just seemed to grow naturally, into a world circling friendship organization. Some local youths, and Navy boys, used to eat at a little lunch counter, in a Tijuana curio shop arcade. The husband of the girl who ran this was a friendly, easy going guy, who suggested we could use his barbells. So a place was rented, that had a large vacant room. Soon a number of beds were acquired, and we put in a shower. This proved very popular, as it is warm here the year around. Everyone would bring in a pal, and sailors visited us when their ships were in port. Then things began to expand.

The building owner let us use, and fence in, a huge vacant lot with trees, and brought a saddle horse from his ranch. Then a printer we knew sold us another for $15.00, called "Red Devil" (Diablo Colorado), as his sons had been unable to ride it. We were never able to fully tame this beast either, and once it wore out three Marines, who were rugged cowboys from Texas!

Soon the club acquired almost a "stable" of mounts. A man who peddled vegetables from carts, sold us a fat white horse, very durable but incredibly stubborn. Four of our boys (brothers, who needed money), got the club to buy a young stallion from them for $20.00, the smartest horse we ever had. Next, a woman who owned a shoe store prevailed on us to buy a p l u m p black mare for $15.00, that she let run loose in the hills around her home, and the boys "borrowed" all the time anyway! When slapped on the shoulder, she would rear up half way and give a big leap forward, two or three times. This trick of course provided a considerable thrill, and the fellows were all "crazy" about riding "Bronca" bareback!

Before long they began practicing jumping with the horses, and "jousting fights" with short poles having a heavy pad. The teams consisted of four boys, two on each horse, who would try to unseat all four boys of another group on horses. It is by far the most exciting and laughable sport we have ever encountered, and crowds would collect every afternoon at five o'clock to watch (or even bet on) the games. All this took place on fifth street in downtown Tijuana, where the four story Plaza Hotel now stands. Our ambition has always been to someday take a jousting troupe on a tour, with extra horses, and take on fellows who wish to try this, in various towns.

We soon needed much more room, so rented a large house and twenty acres for only $20.00 a month, near Rosarito Beach, twelve miles south of Tijuana. In no time we acquired a dozen more horses, for boys who visited each day to ride, in the hills and along the lonely beach. For example, a youth came down from the hills and desired us to buy a wonderful Palamino mare for $15.00. We could not resist this (and paid him $20.00), for in San Diego such an animal would likely cost $1,500. To import a horse into the U.S. however, requires a ridiculous amount of expense and time, and even a greater mountain of red tape than is necessary to get a passport!

We put on rodeos three different years. These included a variety of exciting games or contests, such as riding a galloping horse and picking up a live chicken from the ground. The owner of the ranch was a "lively" young married man, who liked to associate with us, and helped the club build roads, camping spots in canyons, and spaces to park trailers, etc. Members came to visit us, from all over the U.S., often sleeping on the beach or in station wagons, and we made many interesting new friends. The club acquired various pets, three dogs, a cat, a hen, two lambs, a young pig, a rabbit and a baby seal. All of these creatures liked to sleep together, on an old sofa we had on the back porch, frequently on top of each other. The piggy was as smart as the dogs and always ran with them, altho one liked to hang onto his tail, which made him mad!

Lots of our happy projects have come to an end, but we are always planning new ones. We spent all income for a year to build up this place as a permanent club camp. Then the state built a coast highway, cutting it in half. Next the government took over the ranch for a huge project, and blocked the highway. Now it is occupied by an electricity generating plant, for the entire state of Lower California, a gasoline refinery, and even a breakwater for ships to dock. But , we have a multitude of memories, of all the amazing experiences there—and the club hopes to locate another little rancho, for members.

Next we rented a large home and beautiful garden on a hill in Tijuana, overlooking San Diego bay. However the owners, a nice elderly couple, got tired of high prices and life in Calif., after a year, and desired to return. For two years we had a clubhouse at the picturesque port of Ensenada (where we had some rare times) and another in Juarez, across the border from El Paso, Texas. Aided by contributions from members, the club built up a fantastic library, and a charge for visiting this provided income. Some money-making projects, such as a tabloid newspaper, have not been successful. We even had to go to Los Angeles to find a printer for it, and soon were amazed to discover that news distributing agencies have a complete monopoly. Over the years we have had many ups and downs—mostly downs ! However we have had fun—and learned what tolerance and contentment are. Also a few other truths—science has not produced happiness, a college education does not create work, medicine does not produce health, human nudity and sex are not evil, inflated prices and wages are not money, and so on.

We have printed over 85 issues of the club magazine, which is more than any other such publication we know of. This finally became an impossible task, with one duplicator, but it and a pen-friends publication will be resumed. For a time we sold physique photos at a shop in Tijuana, but of course these hardly competed with much more exciting ones, available from taxi drivers on most street corners!

A physique photographer from Los Angeles, who often visited the club, very generously helped us get started in mail order, at a time when we were practically flat on our backs, so to speak, so we have always been grateful. Then came a great water shortage in Tijuana which nearly stopped our printing photos. For three years it often was turned on for only an hour a day—and our boys like to take a daily shower! It may seem incredible, but no matter how poor these youths may be, they almost always are very clean, very broad-minded and very happy.

One of our greatest experiences was when, by pure chance, the Frontier Club became heir and successor to the famous publishing firm of Charles Carrington, of London and Paris. Also Belgium and Holland, for at various times he was prosecuted for his publications in all of these European countries. Mr. Carrington, whose files we have, was for nearly half a century, the world's greatest translator and publisher of medical and rare books. However this is a tale by itself. In fact the unusual experiences our club members have had would easily fill a book, and would be most astonishing reading, if we can ever get it written.

Recently the club has maintained only an apartment in Tijuana, for photo printing and as an office, but with the help of faithful members and many new ones, we can once again expand. Another story would be the aid which the club has given to countless numbers of boys, many orphans, otherwise alone, or stranded, to get some education, learn a trade, and find jobs.

Frontier Club members who send in monthly dues, help educate boys here—and they in turn provide us with some education. We are also thankful for the great number of local youths, who voluntarily and without pay, help with club work, and make our efforts possible.

It is a continual inspiration, just to discover how many kind and wonderful fellows, of all ages, there are in this world.
